Methodist Church To Meet Wed. In Paducah For Annual Fall Conference

The Memphis Conference of the Methodist Church will meet at Broadway Methodist Church, Paducah on Wednesday, November 5. Bishop William T. Watkins will preside. The conference area comprises all of West Tennessee and Western Kentucky, and serves a total of 577 churches with 112,876 members.

There are 212 pastoral charges served by 212 ministers. Many of the pastoral charges are circuits where one minister serves several churches. One lay delegate from each pastoral charge attends the Conference so that ministers and laymen are equally represented in the membership of the Conference.

The Memphis Conference was organized and held its first session in 1840 at Jackson, Tenn., with Bishop J. O. Andrew presiding. Four years later the Southern branch of the church separated from the Northern branch because of the slavery question which had already sown the seeds of the War Between the States. At the General Conference in Kansas City in 1893 the two groups voted to restore brotherhood taking into the united church the Methodist Protestant Church also.

One of the important questions to come before the Conference this year for decision is the matter of changing the date of the annual store brotherhood taking into the united church the Methodist Protestant Church also.

Committee For New Constitution Holds Meet Her

Proponents of a new constitution for Kentucky met in the main assembly room of the court house yesterday afternoon to discuss ways of bringing the issue before the people, and getting the voters to the polls Tuesday.

Senator George Overby called the meeting to order and introduced Miss Mayrell Johnson, chairwoman of the Calloway County Committee advocating a new constitution. She presided at the meeting.

Dean Nash of the college stated briefly that he was in favor of calling a constitutional convention because it is the fundamental right of people living in a democratic state; certain revisions need to be made; and he represents the "tactics being used by the opposition of a new constitution."

Dr. C. S. Lowry, professor of political science at the college, stated that the system of distributing school funds, provided for in the present document, is inadequate; salaries of state employees are too low; and the distribution of money for local government is unfair. He added that amendments to the constitution are rarely passed because they are written by politicians for political reasons. Consequently the people turn them down.

Representatives from various civic and school groups in the county were at the meeting yesterday.

Wiman said he was a Republican, "but first of all I am a citizen who believes in integrity and sincerity of purpose in government." He expressed the conviction the promises made by Dummit in his primary and in the fall campaign "are insincere and will not be fulfilled."

Says He Spent $3000 Speaking of his six months of work for Dummit's primary campaign, of 25,000 miles of travel, and of $3,000 he says he personally spent to defray headquarters expenses, Wiman said he finally "realized the error of my decision."

Dummit, he declared, "had a twofold personality. He is an engaging speaker . . . but the other side of his life was gradually unfolded to me."

Wiman charged that Dummit's political philosophy was "to gain political advantage by any means."

Dropped Soon After Primary Wiman was dropped from the Republican headquarters force a few days after the primary. His friends said at the time that the understanding had been that he would remain in his post through the election campaign.

Wiman was First District campaign chairman for James Park, Lexington, when he opposed Senator Alben W. Barkley, Paducah, for United States senator in 1944.

Wiman also has been a director of the Kentucky Republican Club, fund-raising organization for his party, since its beginning.

After a lengthy discussion of the meeting, a motion was made by L. S. The amount voted and accepted is as follows:

Dr. W. M. Coffey, Ballard County: $200.00; George Runge, McCracken County: $1,000.00; Ed Warren, Graves County: $600.00; Leon Smith, Calloway County: $200.00; Dick Montgomery, Hickman County: $200.00; B. L. Trevathan, Marshall County: $200.00; A. H. Gannon, Carlisle County: $200.00; Horace Alderdice, Livingston County: $100.00; Park Wheeler, Fulton County: $200.00.

This motion was unanimously voted by all officers and directors present.

Board of Directors and officers all unanimously agreed that the Association should look forward and plan on putting the Association on a self-sustaining basis at the earliest possible date.

John Corbin, field secretary, made a general report and presented a schedule for his work for October and a general prospective program through the radio and newspapers were discussed and planned to be executed by John Corbin, the field secretary.

The president then called for a conference by all the heretofore breeders with reference to the sale to be held in the Spring of '48. L. S. Anderson, chairman of the Sale committee made a general report, and after a general discussion the meeting was adjourned.

Ziglin L. Wiman, Mayfield, owner and operator of the Wiman Packing Company, in a statement which he brought personally to The Courier-Journal, said he had been "double-crossed" by Dummit. Wiman further predicted the people of Kentucky would be "double-crossed" should Dummit be elected.

Wiman said he was a Republican, "but first of all I am a citizen who believes in integrity and sincerity of purpose in government." He expressed the conviction the promises made by Dummit in his primary and in the fall campaign "are insincere and will not be fulfilled."

Cooking Meat and Fish in 50 Seconds by Radarange a Feature at National Hotel Show

Carol Southard placing chop and vegetables in Radarange which cooks food in a fraction of time taken by conventional methods.

New York—Cooking a ten-ounce rare sirloin steak in fifty seconds, or a well-done steak in one minute flat, or a one and a half pound lobster in two and a half minutes, are among the interesting demonstrations scheduled for the 32nd National Hotel Exposition to be held in Grand Central Palace, New York, November 10-14. It will be the first public demonstration in New York of the new Raytheon Radarange for cooking electronically in a fraction of the time required by conventional methods. Preparing luscious pork chops, lamb chops and fish fillets in fifty seconds, or a whole chicken in four minutes, or baked potatoes and baked apples in scarcely more than a minute, sounds somewhat revolutionary. So does the baking of cup cakes, muffins and biscuits in only thirty seconds.

The pre-cooking preparation is exactly the same as called for in a standard stove except in the case of frozen foods. With the latter no thawing is necessary. Frozen food is placed under the

SUMMER BEAU
By MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Deborah Parrish lives in Little Harbor, a summer resort, and has a job in the post office. She remembers bitterly a humiliating experience a year ago, when a handsome summer visitor, Craig Benedict, won her love and then dropped her. Fred Craven, a fellow worker and former beau, who deeply resented her infatuation with Craig, continually taunts her with Craig's fickleness. Then, she meets another good-looking summer visitor, Geoffrey Harriman. When he takes her for a drive and makes love to her, she cuts him short, for she's afraid to become involved again with any young man from the summer colony. However, she's strongly attracted to him. Meanwhile, she's worried because her young sister Nan has made friends with Tony Marvin, wealthy playboy, and has lost interest in a local beau, Kenny Harmon, brother of Deborah's friend Maud Harmon, another post-office worker. Then, unexpectedly, Craig returns to Little Harbor but, when he comes to the post office, Deborah is relieved to find she is unmoved. She is happily looking forward to seeing Geoff again that evening, when George Mitchell, the assistant postmaster, comes and asks her what to do about a special-delivery letter addressed to "Mrs. Geoffrey Harriman."

CHAPTER XII

DEBORAH took the letter from George and stared at it. The writing on the envelope swam before her eyes, but there was no doubt that it was addressed to Mrs. not Mr., Geoffrey Harriman.

Her knees were suddenly weak as water, and her head whirled dizzily. Why had she taken it for granted that Geoff was single? He hadn't said he was.

"I'm sure his wife isn't here, but perhaps she's coming," she said, handing the letter back to George. "Anyway, since the letter is special delivery, you'd better have Fred deliver it."

She marveled at the casualness of her tone, took pride in the fact that she could appear quite businesslike.

"Yes—I was going to have it delivered, but I didn't know where Harriman was," George said. "You've met him, haven't you?"

Deborah colored. "Through an accident—yes. His dog tripped me in the drug store day before yesterday and he kindly took me home in his car. I suppose he's staying at his grandmother's cottage, but I'm not sure."

Just then, Fred came up and took the letter from George.

"I can find out from Kenny Harmon where to deliver it," he suggested. "Deb doesn't know anything about the man."

WHEN Fred and George had walked away, Deborah turned back to her work, but she found it hard to concentrate on what she was doing. The news of Geoff's marriage was a blow to her in more ways than one. She realized that she had counted on her friendship with him, and now Craig, who she no longer cared—had counted upon Geoff to carry her through, to bolster up her pride.

She recalled his attempt to make love to her the previous evening. So it had meant nothing! Thank Phyllis and Gerald, Mrs. Claude Miller and Carey, Lurline Orr, and Mrs. Bernie Adams.

Those unable to attend, but sending gifts were Mrs. Clifton Harrell, Mrs. J. W. Horton, Mrs. Boyce Norman, Mrs. Clarence Adams, and Mrs. Edwin Vance.

Games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Wilma Heath, Mrs. Finis Shoemaker and Mrs. Clinton Atkins.

had suffered a knee injury running down a punt. And so on. In New Orleans, the fact that two of his regular guards—Darwood Holm and Mike Balen—were still limping prompted Tulane Coach Henry Frank to doubt where the return of right tackle Walter Villars would solve his problems up front.

So, today—the question was whether SEC clubs could survive relatively light workouts scheduled for this afternoon and subsequent bag-packing routines before heading for week-end game sites. Another long but light exercise today was on tap for LSU in preparation for Saturday night's tussle with Ole Miss at Baton Rouge. In Oxford, Mississippi was slated for additional workouts against a simulated version of LSU's "T" offense.

Tapering-off sessions also were planned for Tulane, which ended its rough work yesterday in preparation for the Mississippi State invasion Saturday. At Starkville, the Maroons also wound up their head-knocking sessions and planned to ease up today.

A light noon drill was billed for Alabama, so the Tide could catch an afternoon train for Lexington where it meets Kentucky Saturday. The Crimson will arrive early tomorrow for a final drill at Still Field tomorrow afternoon.

In Auburn, Voyles planned to leave behind four of his regular backs and a pair of varsity ends when the Plainsmen's 35-man squad-entrains tonight for Nashville. There, the Tigers will work out briefly tomorrow before Saturday's game with Vanderbilt.

Here, Georgia Tech booters were to put in another full afternoon of kicking practice in an otherwise light workout with the all-important Duke game just two days hence.

In Nashville, Vanderbilt expected to enter its homecoming game with Auburn with star end John North handicapped by a knee injury and guard Frank Gorrell possibly out for the season. Gorrell is suffering a recurrence of an old knee injury.

Southeastern Conference Football Review

By JULIAN GRANGER
United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 30 (UP)—

Honestly, so many Southeastern Conference football coaches were hauling forth the old standby complaint—poor physical condition—today that only a rookie insurance agent would have considered Georgia, LSU, or Auburn a good risk.

What the odd-makers, who are faced with some of the most evenly-matched contests of the SEC season this weekend, figured was something else again. They were reported accepting all complaints with a grain of salt.

But as far as Georgia Coach

Wally Butts and Carl Voyles of Auburn were concerned, their squads were in the worst shape ever. Voyles said his was the worst since the season started. Butts went the Plainsman one better—his was the worst of any he has coached in eight years.

From else where around the SEC circuit came other reports of assorted mayhem. Shelton (Buck) Ballard, LSU's first string center, was resting up from a new kick in the side, and guard Ray Collins was nursing an injured hand.

The Plainsmen got back into the act with a fresh report that their No. 1 pass receiver, Ray Williams,

Bureau Of Standards Gives Tips About Halloween Pranks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (UP)—

To guard against Halloween pranks, the National Bureau of Standards has a few suggestions.

To make it easier to clean those windows that are sure to be soaped, the Bureau advises applying a thin film of vaseline or lubricating oil over the entire surface of glass with a soft cloth. That makes it hard for the pranks to soap or wax windows. In any case, the vaseline film, soap or wax marking all can be removed easily by washing with water and soap or synthetic detergent.

If you don't coat your windows, hot water, a stiff fiber brush, and plenty of rubbing will remove soap markings. For removing wax crayon and candle marks use an organic solvent such as gasoline, kerosene, turpentine or mineral spirits then clear with soap or a detergent.

Use both the hot water and solvent treatment on windows marked with soap and wax.

Peggy "Rena" McDougal visited "Jole Blon" Saturday.

"Brown Eyes" come over and have dinner with me again.

"Lone Hand", I'm sorry I couldn't make it over to see you Wednesday night and help you drink those ice cold co-colas.

Jole Blon visited Mr. and Mrs. Elish Williams last week.

Mrs. Elish Williams was sick the past week.

Pete Jones visited Orville Fulcher this week. They will start cutting wood this afternoon for Mr. Fulcher.

So long folks—Jole Blon

Which brings the first practical lesson—that of the tongue. "The tongue is a little member," says James, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!

Boys and girls who guard their tongues will have friends. Boys and girls who speak words of envy, prejudice and falsehood will be shunned.

The Right Words
WHAT is in our hearts determines what we say and do. Therefore, if we are to speak the right words, our hearts must be right—right with God.

I have just come from a playground where a group of junior boys and girls were having a picnic. I got there at the moment when a baseball game was in the decisive ninth inning. One of the junior boys was umpire. He called a pitched ball a strike, and the batter objected. Words followed—not altogether pleasing words. They saw me standing on the sidelines, and asked me to settle the matter. I had not seen the pitched ball closely enough to express an opinion.

The boy who had spoken most sharply went to the boy who was umpire, took his hand, and said: "It's okay with me, I am sorry I said what I did." That boy had the right attitude. He turned wrong words into right words, because his heart was right.

The Power of Words
"SPEAK not one against another," writes James 4:11. Two teenage girls were walking home from school. One spoke bitterly to the other of a "third girl." They parted at the corner, and the girl who had spoken the bitter words of her neighbor slipped and fell as she passed the home of the girl about whom she had been speaking. The neighbor girl rushed to her side, helped her into the house where her mother dressed the ankle. Waiting for her father to come with the car, the girl who had spoken bitter words began to cry. Thinking that her neighbor was crying from the pain of the ankle, the girl who had been bitterly assaulted spoke sympathetically to her neighbor.

"Will you forgive me?" cried out the distressed girl.

"Forgive you?"

"For the unkind words I spoke about you to Mary. O, I am sorry, sorry."

Forgiveness, they became trusted friends.

Words Reflect Character
THIS lesson should summon every heart to utter the prayer of the Psalmist:

"Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my Redeemer," Psalm 19:14.

Our words reflect our character. Christ's standard of conduct calls for words wisely chosen. Longfellow put it well when he wrote:

"I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight."

"I breathed a song into the air,
Tell to earth, I knew not where;
For a hoarse beggar in heaven and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?"

Long, long afterward, in an oak,
I found the arrow still unbroke;
And the song from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

Christian Conduct

Lesson for November 2, 1947

CHRISTIAN standards of conduct must be understood as Christ's standards, not man's standards. Our lesson makes this quite clear when James declares:

"My brethren, be not many masters (judges), knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation."

James 3:1. James goes on in this third chapter to emphasize the truth that man is by nature inclined to "run away," even as the horse when it is not bridled, or the ship when it is not controlled.

Which brings the first practical lesson—that of the tongue. "The tongue is a little member," says James, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!

Boys and girls who guard their tongues will have friends. Boys and girls who speak words of envy, prejudice and falsehood will be shunned.

The Words I Say
IN PROVERBS 8:7, we read, "My mouth shall utter truth." And again in Proverbs 23:11, we read, "a word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver."

Which adds up to this: The words we say have much to do with what people think of our standard of conduct. If we speak words of truth and kindness, we need not be concerned what people will think of us.

The Right Words
WHAT is in our hearts determines what we say and do. Therefore, if we are to speak the right words, our hearts must be right—right with God.

I have just come from a playground where a group of junior boys and girls were having a picnic. I got there at the moment when a baseball game was in the decisive ninth inning.
